“It is also my knowledge that keeps me calm and free of a desire to dominate through fear. I am a willing partner to this child, waiting for him to be a willing partner as well.”

If we don't do all we can to salvage these children, it is almost like spitting in the face of God.

Chapter 1

A Portrait of Pain

One of my doctors one day asked me to write out all the good things that happened to me as a child and all the bad things that happened...I started crying because I could not think of one good thing.

Jasmine, high school student, Perth, Australia

The PersonBrain Model

Dr Paul Baker

versus

Normal Brain

Depressed brain – 17 year old – depressed & suicidal

PersonBrain Model

- Supportive, compassionate people are primary to relational change.
- The brain can and will change for the better when trained individuals understand its basic function and needs.

What makes an action therapeutic?

- Referring someone to therapy does not insure success.
- People change people, and experiences change the brain.
- Therapy is an interactive experience and for this to be effective, the brain has to see it as a good experience.
- If the brain recognizes a good experience it changes for the better.

The Eco-Relational Funnel

The Share Experience

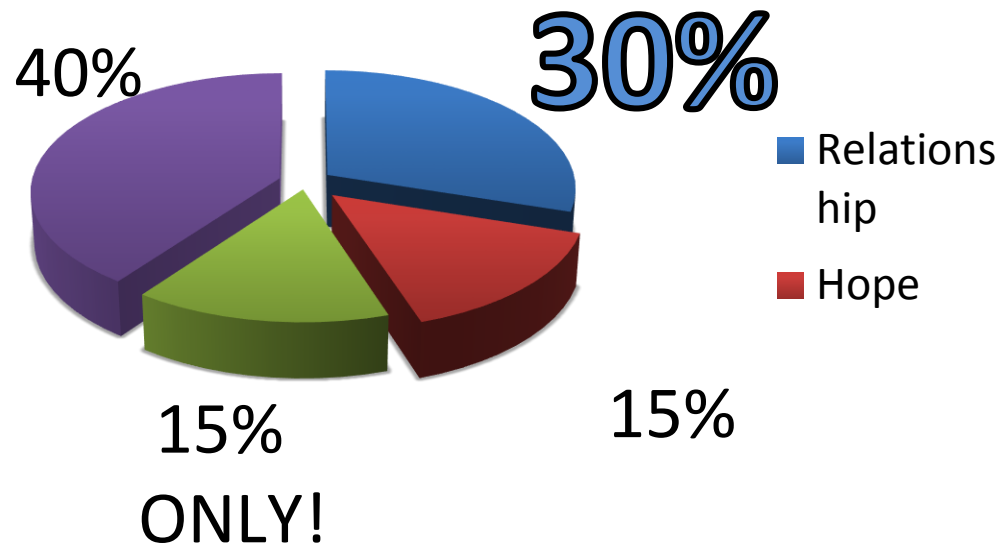

In order to develop normally, a child requires progressively more complex joint activity with one or more adults who have an irrational emotional relationship with the child. Somebody's got to be crazy about that kid. That's number one. First, last and always.

A photograph of a young boy in a public restroom. The boy is standing on a tiled floor, looking at a urinal mounted on a tiled wall. He is wearing a white t-shirt with a graphic and dark shorts. To his left is a wooden partition and a sink. To his right is another urinal. The word "FAIL" is written in large red letters over the right urinal.

Neuro-Relational Retraining

“BE WITH, FEEL WITH, GO WITH”

This is the foundation to transformation. “That which is not transformed, is transferred.”

This approach deals specifically with what children and youth need, not a diagnosis

“Unless someone like you cares a whole awful lot, nothing is going to get better. It’s not. Dr. Suess

Things to remember in neuro-relational retraining

- Scaffolding for Support: co-constructing a secure relational foundation
- Trust Trials – opportunities provided to prove we are worthy of each others trust
- Relational Mosaic – each piece may seem insignificant alone but together form the picture

Relational Reimbursement

- Brain is social brain redesigning itself to survive.
- At times we need to rescue youth from themselves.
- Some strategies
  - Re-craft their experiences
  - Being genuine and compassionate
  - Use multiple ports of entry, never giving up
  - Micro-interactions are important

Value of Children

- Each person working with children and adolescents should have a passion for them.
- “You’ve been handed a piece of history in advance – a gracious gift you send to a time you will not see - and you play the biggest role in how that history will ultimately be recorded.”

Dr. Time Kimmel, Grace based Parenting

Understanding the “Inside Kid

“Please coach me, don’t scold me”

“Mourning has broken, learning from the wisdom of adversity.” Camella B’Hahn

“Your mess can become your message” —

Understanding the “Inside Kid

- Practice this general philosophy on all interactions with youth
- Always look to improve the relationship, if you cannot do this at least leave it unchanged, but never cause it to be damaged.
